

Press Release

Scientific Lab Supplies Signs Exclusive Deal for Culture Media

The UK's largest independent supplier of laboratory products is pleased to announce an exclusive deal with E & O Laboratories Ltd for their comprehensive range of microbiological media.

SLS already have a comprehensive range of microbiology equipment, consumables and media which has been further strengthened by the addition of E & O to their portfolio, with exclusivity into the universities sector. E & O Laboratories manufacture a comprehensive range of Ready-To-Use culture media in a variety of formats along with dehydrated culture media, antibiotic supplements/reagents, donor animal blood and serum, all in a wide range of volumes and containers.

Commenting on this deal, Sandie Flanagan, Clinical Business Manager, SLS remarked 'We are very excited about this new opportunity. The E & O range perfectly complements our own and will enable us to offer microbiologists a real choice when it comes to their culture media, animal blood and associated reagents'. She further added 'E & O's ethos is very close to our own – we aim to supply precisely the quality our customers need and E & O produce the highest quality products'.

Matthew Smith, Marketing Manager for E & O Laboratories reiterated this message adding 'This will open up new markets and customers for both ourselves and SLS and we are looking forward to working closely together in this new partnership'.

For further information about the range or any other laboratory requirements you may have please visit www.scientific-labs.com